HILL CLIMB LOCATION

A view of the Hillclimb site before construction, looking southeast.

The plant palette is inspired by traditional colors from Vietnamese art.

A view from the plaza of the stairs looking south.

A view from the bottom of the Hill Climb looking north and up, with the stairs and bike runnel.

Generous landings at the stairs with seating pods to pause and gather.

The Hillclimb stairs allow for multiple users to interact seamlessly.

Seating groups are convivial and focus on the views.

The storm water runnel collects run-off in and around the Hillclimb and conveys it along the stair.

Glass Art Medallions inserted in walls accompany the walker on the climb. The medallions represent Yesler Terrace's culture—past, present and future.

Light fixtures were carefully selected to ensure appropriate light levels and reduced glare.

The Hillclimb is well-used and open to the public at all times. The space has reconnected neighborhoods and the community.
